Mr. Everything

The mysterius quiet man

These images are a week apart from each other.

Mr. everything is just another customer, but unlike other customers he lingers the most in my mind. His nickname is given by me and my co-workers due to his choice to put all of the flavours (lemon, lime and ginger) in his cane juice. He is a man of habit. He come by for a cup of juice every Friday, he always stand outside the line but never once did he cut the line. Before handing us his money, he always rubs them several time. Either he is trying to make sure he didn't accidentally gave us too much or he wants it look like its clean, neat and new. After he received his drinks, he went to the bin, drink all in one go and throw them in the bin before going to do his stuff.

Never have I heard him speak except the time when I accidentally gave him his drink before the other customers. And he gave me a look that said "what on earth you doing? Go serve them first!". And once it is his turn, he said "okay!" With the tone of thanking me and I believe he meant "I get that you remember me and remember my drink!". He just seems gave off a vibe of a wise man.

Mr. Everything keeps all his money in a single white envelope.

Mr. Everything always wears the same outfit.

Mr. Everything mutters a lot, all of them is a mystery to the curious me. He mutters when he rubs his note, he mutters when he look at rude people, he mutters when he walks. But all these are done without any sound. At this point I believe he is chanting.....

"if it doesn't fit make it fit"

"wink wink"

Chris is the guy who will wear shorts in winter and sweater in summer.

Chris still wears his father's vintage jackets and he bought a blue double breasted blazer online that looks like a sea captain.

Chris has a big built and he is a local Thai, thus his nickname jumbo thai(which is also a name of a restaurant.)

Chris is someone who hides about his feelings. Despite his loud and outgoing personality. He likes saying "Taillo" out of habit which meant boss or big brother in Cantonese.

Chris is scared of heights(more like ladders), according to him it is mostly because he is a big dude and he might fell from ladders and hurt himself.

Chris dislikes goldfish, just because he have seen his own goldfish died before and it looks like the orange he spat out.

Chris likes to throw in dirty puns in any kind of conversations. No matter how dirty it is no one ever hates it if it is from him.

He finds night time and rainy days calming, although he likes city life he also finds that somewhere quiet will calm him down. "Just walking around at night, doing nothing. Walk, watch, walk, watch." He also finds money calming him, lots of lots of money, lots of digits.

I would like to reach full potential as in day to day activities to get the most out of things.

I wear the things according to the oldest that I haven't worn in a while in a cycle.

"Movement is dictated by my width, I tried to conserve space. When I'm walking forward I let one shoulder move forwards, so I walk sideways to weave through the crowd, so I don't tend to walk square."

Despite his size he is actually quite athletic himself. He used to row. He also have body that is so solid like a rock, I tried kicking is ass but I hurt my legs instead, its like kicking a concrete.
